About the Artist:

Linda Schweitzer has always gained a great feeling of accomplishment from drawing and painting. However, when she was young, she listened to the prevailing voices of the day, who seemed to know that art was not an acceptable way to earn a living. So the yearning to create art was put on hold until the age of 45, and then it fairly exploded! She started with watercolor, garnering awards in juried shows from the very beginning. A few years later, she moved into oil painting, and now works in both mediums. Her works are now part of many private and public collections.
